

How Much Will Your Next Translation Cost?

Our translation rates typically range from $0.17 - $0.32 a word and $0.06 - $0.13 a word for revision depending on the rarity and complexity of the language and the material being translated. In order to give you an accurate quote, we will need to see and analyze your document beforehand. Also note that that small translation projects may be subject to a minimum fee.

What Factors Are Impacting Your Translation's Price?

Many factors can play a part the price of your translation project, including the language, your deadline, the volume of work, and complexity. Here at Affordable Language Services, we explain step by step what your translation will need and what you can do to help save time and money. Individual language pricing sheet available upon request.

What Languages Do You Need Translated?

We offer translations in many different languages. Do not hesitate to ask if you need a rare language; there are over 150 different languages we can translate, with more added all the time.

Do You Need Formatting Services?

The text may expand or contract in translation - that is it may need more or less space than English to say the same thing. This means that your documents may end up looking completely different in a new language. Our Desktop Publishing services can properly format your documents so they match your original document and look great in every language.

Do You Need a Certified Translation?

We can always provide a Certificate of Accuracy with every translation. A certificate of accuracy carries a notary seal that states that the translation is an accurate copy of the original. You may need this if your document will be a part of a legal proceeding, if it is for immigration or other government authorities, if it is requested by a university or other institution, or in certain medical contexts.
